ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

As you enter the Corten steel gates the drive will lead you past the guest house, Frida, named after artist Frida Kahlo. It has a Mexican Hacienda style which creates a perfect hideout or retreat for your large family or visiting guests.

The large main house, Diego, named after Frida's husband Diego Rivera sits proud upon the hillside and is beautifully integrated into the surrounding nature with olive, pine and palm trees. Due to the South-west orientation and floor to ceiling glass windows, light pours into the living rooms throughout the day.

Every part of the property was built with intention - whether that be where the materials were sourced from or the dimensions being guided by sacred geometry, the level of care for the island and this home which sits on it, is felt as you enter.

Do not just take our word for it, get in touch to experience Ses Calas with all of your senses - perhaps it is the sixth sense this villa tickles most because the true magic feels unspeakable.
